

Employee turnover

Staffing shortages

Training new employees

Managing employee schedules

Dealing with difficult customers

Inventory management

Stockouts

Theft or loss prevention

Meeting sales targets

Increasing store revenue

Managing expenses

Budgeting

Merchandising

Compliance with regulations

Health and safety concerns

Employee morale

Performance management

Handling employee conflicts

Handling customer complaints

Marketing and advertising

Keeping up with industry trends

Competition from other stores

Technology issues

Maintaining store cleanliness

Vendor management

Product pricing

Promotions and discounts

Balancing workload

Time management

Communication with upper management

Dealing with irate or upset customers

Keeping up with changing consumer preferences

Managing online reviews and ratings

Dealing with returns and exchanges

Setting and enforcing store policies

Organizing store events or promotions

Handling special orders or requests

Implementing new procedures or systems

Balancing work and personal life

Dealing with employee absenteeism

Dealing with shoplifting

Keeping track of sales trends

Handling employee evaluations and performance reviews

Responding to customer feedback

Dealing with supply chain disruptions

Balancing customer service with other responsibilities

Managing social media presence

Handling cash management

Managing store layout and displays

Staying motivated and avoiding burnout